Attorney General John Ashcroft
US Department of Justice
950 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20530-0001

Dear Mr. Ashcroft:

It recently has come to my attention that the federal government is considering public comments on the Microsoft antitrust case to determine if the settlement actually serves the public interest. I would like to take this opportunity to express my opinion that the settlement does in fact meet the needs of the public interest.

I have followed this case for years, and I believe it is high time that both the government and Microsoft return to work. Microsoft will return to work with improved business practices that will ensure equity in the computer industry and choice for consumers. The corporation will comply with an impartial technical committee that will monitor its actions and assist in dispute resolution.

The government can return to work with the countless other pressing issues that face us at this time. I would like to see this matter resolved, and I am confident that the current settlement agreement is satisfactory to all involved parties. As a computer user, I support Microsoft and its quality products, and as an American I support the hard work of our public servants such as you. Thank you for your valuable time.

Sincerely,
